

ABSTRACTCOMMUNICATION DEVICES AND METHOD OF COMMUNICATION

10 A communications device comprising means for transmitting a signal to another party; and means for controlling the signal level with which said transmitting means transmits, wherein said signal level is initially relatively low and when a connection is established with said another party, said signal level is increased.

Patented by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office on 08/01/2001 under Patent No. 6,280,000.